SEEK MOTIVE IN NEW YORK AUTHORESS' SLAYING

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11.—There is much difference of opinion on economic matters among college professors as there is among us ordinary people. The Roosevelt administration made a great impression on the nation by employing what for three years has been characterized as a "Brain Trust." Imitation is the sincerest flattery, and the Republican National Committee has now announced the establishment of a Brain Trust of its own. "Monkey see, monkey do."
The intention is for the Republican Board of Consultants to nullify in the public mind the pronouncements of the New Deal.
The conflicting views that are bound to result may possibly make the public lose confidence in sweeping professorial utterances on anything and everything to do with government.
The voters were just beginning to do some thinking on their own account. Now they are going to be presented with a new set of opinions, each sponsored by professors holding degrees just as impressive as those distinguishing the other group.
It seems as though the key to the political situation might turn out to be a Phi Beta Kappa key.

PA NEW OBSERVES

With the start of the trout fishing season next week, many local trout fishermen are preparing to heed the urge of the state game authorities and limit their catch to less than the legal number allowed. Voluntary limiting of the number of fish taken from the waters has been urged as a means of conserving the stock in the streams. The flood conditions in many streams during the past few weeks has a tendency to cut down the supply of fish. Pa New is told, hence the voluntary steps to conserve the supply.

While weather conditions early today didn't promise anything particularly delightful in the way of Easter weather, the officials in some sections of the state were holding forth the alluring idea that Sunday might be a nice sunny day.
Tomorrow is Easter Sunday. Just how the traditional Easter parade will turn out here depends on the weatherman. A fair break will mean that New Castle streets will be crowded, no doubt.
There should be little chance of drought conditions having any effect upon crops in Lawrence county this summer, Pa New is told. The ground is well water soaked, and a large supply is being stored up.

With a reasonable break in the weather, New Castle merchants will probably do the biggest business they have done in any one day for several years, today. Friday was a big day, every store being full of shoppers and to the delight of the merchants they were buying in satisfying quantities. Clothing merchants, confectioners, florists, women's wear shops, all of them have (Continued On Page Two)

New York Police Hunt For Clues In Bath Tub Murder

Body Of Authoress Found In Exclusive New York Apartment Home
BELIEVE DEATH DUE TO STRANGULATION
Unusual Mystery Surrounds Latest Crime Sensation In Metropolis
(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 11.—Newest discoveries of criminological science were to be employed by the police today to break down the wall of mystery surrounding the brutal "horror murder" of 34-year-old Mrs. Nancy Titterton, auburn-haired authoress, whose nude body was found in the bathtub of her home in fashionable Beekman Place.
After nearly 12 hours of investigation the police admitted themselves baffled concerning a possible motive for the crime and decided to place their hope for clues on laboratory and microscopic analysis.
To Seek Fingerprints.
This morning the red shirt waist and the top of the victim's pajamas, with which she was strangled, will be taken to the police laboratory, placed under the microscope and then subjected to the new silver nitrate process, developed by Dr. Erasmus Hudson, Hauptmann trial witness, in the hope that the slayer's fingerprints will be revealed. Fingerprints found on the wall of the bathroom in which the writer's body was discovered also will be placed under the microscope.
An autopsy, to be performed today, is expected to determine the actual cause of death. The police now believe Mrs. Titterton was strangled, but examination of the organs may yield a different cause.
The murder was discovered late yesterday when two upholsterers, John Flozema and Theodore Kruger, called at the apartment. When no one responded to the bell, they said, they found the door to the Titterton apartment ajar. Kruger noticed the woman's arm extending over the side of the bathtub when he glanced (Continued On Page Two)

U. S. CONSULATE BOMB DAMAGED

(International News Service)
HAVANA, April 11.—Soldiers patrolled the streets of Santiago today after a double bombing, in one of which the United States consulate was damaged for the second time in two years, according to reports here.
One bomb burst on the ground floor of the Nova Scotia bank building, in which the consulate is located. The other exploded at the home of Pelayo Recio, Santiago postmaster. No one was hurt in either blast.
Police saw no connection between the bombings and the arrival at Santiago of Provisional President Jose Barnet.

State Of Anarchy Exists In Mexico Exiled Calles Says

(International News Service)
DALLAS, Tex., April 11.—"A state of anarchy exists in Mexico and Communism is spreading with government help," General Plutarco Elias Calles, forcibly exiled from the country he ruled with an iron hand for 11 years, declared here today.
The former president of Mexico and three other once powerful political figures were arrested yesterday, hustled into a specially chartered plane at Mexico City and flown across the border to Brownsville, in a surprise move of the revolutionary government of President Cardenas.
"Bitter Blow"
"It was a bitter blow," the one-time "strong man" of Mexico declared today, "to leave my native land, my family and friends, perhaps never to return."
Officially the former president was expelled from his native land "for reasons of public health." Gen. Calles declared the real reason "is because of the opposition of myself and my friends to the influx of Communism in Mexico."
The exile said, "I admit that we have opposed that, but we have done it lawfully."
To Continue Journey
DALLAS, Tex., April 11.—Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico, planned to leave Dallas this morning at 8:08 o'clock by an American Airways plane for Los Angeles.
Accompanied by four former associates, Calles intended to continue his tour of exile that began in Mexico City Friday morning when he was put into a plane by Mexican officials and told not to return to that country. His son, Alfredo, went with him as far as Brownsville, Texas, where he left his father to return to Mexico.

"Swallowed" By Sweeper, Boy Escapes Unhurt

THE BOY AND THE SWEEPER WHICH "SWALLOWED" HIM
Talk about a dirty trick! Imagine a street sweeper taking up a human cargo. And a small boy at that. Yes, Alfred Zuhl, 12-year-old St. Joseph, Mich., lad, was "swallowed" by the street sweeper he is pointing to. Alfred was uninjured except for a few scratches and a begrimed face. When extricated by city mechanics, Alfred said, "Gee, it was dark in there." The accident occurred when Alfred's bicycle skidded with him and fell in front of the machine at an intersection. —Central Press

Fire Destroys Small Cottage

Loss Of Around $300 Is Sustained In Blaze At Early Hour This Morning
Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed a two-room frame cottage in the rear of 1125 Croton avenue at 4:20 o'clock this morning. A loss of $300 was sustained, partly covered by insurance.
An alarm from Box 33 summoned third ward and B. truck companies to the scene, but the place was a mass of flames when they arrived.
The structure was owned by Dominick Lastoria and was occupied by William Jenkins. Mr. Jenkins was not at home when the fire occurred.

Two Lane Bridge Will Be Altered

County Commissioners To Remove Danger On West Washington Street Bridge
STATE ENGINEER TO PREPARE PLANS
County commissioners have decided to eliminate the dangerous condition of the West Washington street bridge which has been an eyesore ever since it was converted into a two lane traffic bridge with a useless section fenced off through the center.
The center section, which was evolved several years ago on the theory that the bridge could not be strengthened in any other way, has been a nuisance ever since. The approach is dangerous from both ends, but more especially from the west end on account of the hill. When ice and snow cover the street, it is hard to keep cars from skidding into the center section. Several cars have been wrecked on this obstruction, but happily no lives have been lost. This has been due largely to the fact that the approach has been kept well ashed.
Yesterday F. Herbert Snow, a state highway engineer, went over the situation with the county commissioners, and after an inspection of the bridge Mr. Snow said that it could be strengthened and the center section eliminated. He will prepare plans for the improvement and submit them to the county commissioners. It is expected that the work will be done this summer. The improvement is one that is badly needed and the action of the county commissioners will no doubt meet with the approval of taxpayers.

Hunt For Slayer Of Brookville Woman

Officers Seek Clues To Identity Of Slayer Of Miss Katherine Bracken
Beaten To Death At Tower On Railroad Where She Was Employed
(International News Service)
BROOKVILLE, Pa., April 11.—State and county authorities began an investigation today into the brutal slaying of Miss Katherine Bracken, 45, tower operator for the Pittsburgh-Shawmut railroad, whose body was found at the bottom of a 30-foot embankment below her station.
The entire room in disorder, traces of blood were found on her desk, chair and train charts. A large, blood-stained metal inkwell found near the tower was believed to have been the weapon used by the slayer, according to Sheriff Samuel Lowry.
Criminally attacked, Miss Bracken was beaten to death and either dragged down the steps or thrown from the tower located in an isolated spot near here, according to authorities.
Feeling in the usually placid community ran high as news of the cruel slaying spread.
Community Aroused
Police believed that only a powerfully built man could have dragged Miss Bracken from the tower room to the top of the embankment. She weighed about 175 pounds.
Summoned by a screaming fire siren, a posse of 50 from Brookville searched for the slayer throughout the night, blocking highways and scouring the district near the tower.
The slaying was discovered by W. R. Lettice, of Knoxdale, Miss Bracken's relief, who said he set out to search for the victim when he found a pool of blood in the room. He summoned police and Lee Wilcox, a trainman.
As the body was carried away, (Continued On Page Two)

Opposition To Earle's Program

Bi-Partisan Committee Opposed To Some Plans For Special Session
FLOOD CONTROL IS OUT OF DISCUSSION

HARRISBURG, April 11.—Gov. George H. Earle's proposed legislative program for the May special session of the General Assembly today met the opposition of a bi-partisan committee seeking to "harmonize" subjects to be presented during the session.
With one item advanced by the governor already cast aside, the committee members were to be reassembled here to continue their study of the chief executive's recommendations. While agreement on some subjects was believed near, on others the group was reported to be undecided or opposed.

Italy Answers League Appeal

Unable To Observe Rules Of Warfare Due To Ethiopian Atrocities
(International News Service)
ROME, April 11.—Italy replied to the League of Nations appeal to observe the rules of warfare today, stating she wished to confirm observance of the rules but implying alleged Ethiopian atrocities prevented it.
The reply, sent to the league's committee of 13, failed to mention Ethiopian charges that Italy was using poison gas in the war, neither confirming nor denying the accusation.
"Italian military authorities cannot fail to repress every act of inhuman atrocity committed by the adversary in defiance of all laws and morals," said the reply.
"Italy's observance of the rules of warfare has been and is the constant rule of the Italian army, but this observance must be bilateral."
Despite insistence of administration officials on raising the full amount set by the president, the house body has refused to consider new processing taxes.
As the tax subcommittee virtually completed whipping the new bill into shape, chairman Doughton defended the huge boost in the nation's tax bill.
"Any tax to support the government is going to be heavy and is not likely to get lighter in the near future," he said.
Important modifications, which admittedly will put down the committee's estimated $799,000,000 total had been approved by the tax subcommittee.

Huge Crowds Will Attend Easter Services In Churches Sunday

In song and sermon the annual Easter day will be observed on Sunday. The forty days of Lent are ended, and the long winter gives way to the warmer days of spring. Spring flowers and spring frocks will color the day and in every church appropriate services will dignify the observance of the Resurrection.
Not a Christian church but will have special services marking the day tomorrow. Cantatas, anthems, special choral music, all them have their place and from every pulpit will be recalled the miracle of the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea.
Religiously the day is one of the two truly great days of the year. Temporally the day marks the end of a season of sacrifice, and the beginning of a season of renewed pleasures.
Many churches have arranged elaborate services for Easter, particularly the larger ones with choirs sufficiently large to carry the more impressive Easter song services. But size will mean nothing to the spirit of the day and the smallest church or mission will mark it with as much fervor if not as much display.
In the business world merchants expressing themselves are well pleased with the sales volume of the season. Not a store but has felt the surge of the increased buying power and whether it be shoes, or shirts or gowns, or jewelry or flowers all of them have noticed a satisfying increase.
Beginning Monday the amusement fields will see a revival of affairs. Theatres, dances, entertainments and the like are scheduled to reappear after a season of recession due to religious observance.
The long winter is past and the spring days are ahead and somehow the Easter seems to be the line of demarcation between the drab days of winter and the glorious days of spring.

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 11.—On four unexploded dynamite bombs, sent through the mail camouflaged as Easter gifts and wrapped in white to symbolize the occasion, authorities today pinned their hope of solving the mysterious wave of bombings that swept over the Wyoming Valley, leaving one man dead and four other persons injured.
The bombs, two of which were intercepted by postal authorities before they reached their intended victims and two that failed to explode on their deadly mission, have been preserved by officials and will be examined by fingerprint, handwriting and bomb experts.
Release Suspect
Local authorities, after releasing the only suspect arrested in the case, admitted they had no other suspects under actual surveillance and said they were relying on information they hoped to obtain from the bomb "cigar boxes" in their inquiry. They indicated they (Continued On Page Two)

Showdown On New Tax Bill To Be Avoided

House Committee Leaders Not To Clash With President On Measure
TENTATIVE BILL IS SHORT $300,000,000
Committee Refuses To Consider New Processing Taxes As Asked
By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 11.—House Ways and Means committee leaders today indicated they will avoid a showdown with President Roosevelt on their proposed new $799,000,000 tax bill.
Unless the president invites committee leaders to the white house to discuss the proposed bill, it will be presented to the house without his direct approval, Chairman Doughton (D) of North Carolina, said today.
The tentative bill planned by the house committee falls short over $300,000,000 of meeting the total of $1,137,000,000 permanent and temporary taxes sought by the president to repair the damage done to the budget by the AAA invalidation.
Will Be Heavy
Despite insistence of administration officials on raising the full amount set by the president, the house body has refused to consider new processing taxes.

Plane Crashes Cost 23 Lives In Seven Days

(International News Service)
Today's Pan-American plane crash off Trinidad brought American aviation's death toll up to 23 for the past seven days.
It was a disastrous week for the industry, with crashes dotting the map from Vermont to the Caribbean.
Deaths were thickest in Pennsylvania's mountains where sixteen died. On Sunday night five army fliers were killed in a crash near Fredericksburg. On Tuesday TWA's crack "Sun Racer" carried eleven to death on a mountain side near Uniontown. Three were injured.
Two were killed near Hamilton, Ohio, when a plane dove into a field Wednesday. On the same day a student pilot was killed, another student and an instructor injured when two planes collided over Roosevelt Field, N. Y., and a pilot was killed and his mechanic hurt in a test flight at Burlington, Vt.
Leland Hayward, Katherine Hepburn's manager, was injured in a crash at Roosevelt field Wednesday. The Pan-American accident today took three lives.

PRESIDENT'S VACATION ENDS

Roosevelt Is Back At Desk

No Critical Administrative Problems Develop During Absence

MUCH ROUTINE WORK PILES UP

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 11.—Back in harness after his 19-day vacation, President Roosevelt today sought information on the legislative program from congressional leaders.
There were indications at the White House the executive would urge more speed. Slow progress on tax legislation in particular points to a considerable delay in adjournment, and with the campaign approaching, administration leaders want congress to wind up its business and go home.
The bronzed and refreshed president learned from his cabinet that no critical administrative problems had arisen in his absence. His desk was piled with routine, however, which had not been sent by air to the cruising Potomac.
Several major posts left unfilled when Mr. Roosevelt went south were calling for attention. One was the assistant secretaryship of navy, left vacant by the death of Col. Henry Roosevelt. It had been reported that James Moffett, former federal housing administrator, would be named to the post. Moffett, who had been in the presidential special, however, and left it stating quite definitely he would not return to Washington.

SHOWDOWN ON NEW TAX BILL TO BE AVOIDED

will have their taxes boosted from an average of 16.4 per cent to a flat tax of 22 1/2 percent but he left out the proposed earnings tax scheme, at least partially.
Must Exceed Earnings
All debts, to be considered in the exception plan, must have been created before March 3, 1936, when President Roosevelt sent his tax message to congress.
Debts will include those evidenced in writing which at the time of issuance had a maturity of more than three years, all debts of whatever maturity incurred prior to March 3, 1936 for capital account.
The subcommittee proposed, however, that debts must exceed earnings and profits at the beginning of the taxable year to come within the exception. The part of income applied to debt reduction would bear 22 1/2 percent tax. The remainder would come under the general scheme.

in semi-darkness of the dawn, and had reached a speed of 50 M. P. H., thirty miles an hour less than the speed needed to take the air, when the pilot observed a small boat which had strayed into the water path of the speeding plane.
In an attempt to avoid a crash, which might have resulted in death to all aboard, the pilot throttled down his machine and tried to spin slightly to miss the boat.
The sudden check, witnesses said, made the big ship, which was half out of the water, settle sharply and nose under.
Rescuers worked fast to get into the sunken cabin, but when the bodies of the three were recovered efforts to revive them failed.
M. Monerville, a deputy from French Guiana enroute to his constituency, was among those aboard the ship.
This was the second crash in seven years' operation of this section of the air line. The previous one occurred several months ago in almost the same spot. There were no fatalities then.
Rescue 22 Passengers
Miami, Fla., April 11.—A Pan-American Airways launch rescued 22 of the 25 persons aboard the airline's clipper ship, No. 15374, when it collided with a launch in an attempted take off at Port of Spain, Trinidad, early today, it was announced by officials of the company.

OPPOSITION TO EARLE'S PROGRAM

quickly rejected one feature of his proposed program—flood control—and devoted the remainder of its time to fact-finding. Calling in several departmental representatives, the group conducted an investigation that extended throughout the afternoon and well into the night.
Pointing out no conclusions were reached by the committee, one member stated the group had no intention of accepting the governor's program as presented without an exhaustive study. The investigation of each subject outlined was to be continued today, in addition to a preliminary discussion on revenues measures.
"We are just finding facts at this time," a spokesman for the committee said, "and have reached no conclusions on those facts. However, the committee intends to take the non-controversial subjects for consideration and will not touch the controversial items."
Flood control was rejected by the group as being "too large" a program in cost and scope for consideration at the special session. The emergency need, the committee decided, was for flood relief, but not for flood control.

NEW YORK POLICE HUNT FOR CLUES IN BATH TUB MURDER

into the bathroom from the living room. He immediately telephoned police.
Indicates Battle.
The police found the woman's clothes strewn about her bedroom, indicating, they said, that the slayer had ripped them from her body. Hooks and eyes from her skirt and her brassiere were found on the floor of the bathroom.
The authorities at first concluded the murder was motivated by criminal assault, but preliminary investigation disclosed no evidence to substantiate this belief. They also were compelled to discard robbery as a motive because nothing in the apartment was missing and a platinum ring on the victim's finger was untouched.
Detectives could find no way of entering or leaving the apartment, except the door which leads into the living room, through which the two upholsterers entered. There were other doors leading into the hallways, but they were undisturbed. It was thought for a time the assailant might have entered through an open window leading to the fire escape from the bathroom. But a grille around the window showed no sign of being disturbed.
No New Leads
Early today after 12 witnesses had been questioned, Deputy Chief Inspector Francis J. Keary and Assistant District Attorney O'Rourke called a halt in the investigation until the laboratory experiments could be conducted. O'Rourke said:
"We have found no new leads in the case. The medical examiner's autopsy will determine further action."

The witnesses questioned included the two upholsterers, the janitor of the building, four painters who had been working in the hallways of the apartment house the past few days, Lewis H. Titterton, an executive of the National Broadcasting company, the husband of the slain woman, and friends of the couple.
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Connitt Washburn, who live in the apartment house, the Tittertons, told the police they were home all day, but heard no unusual sounds that would have indicated a struggle. They said their dog, which barks at the slightest noises, showed no signs of uneasiness during the time the murder was supposed to have taken place.
Was Authorless.
Red marks on each of Mrs. Titterton's wrists, however, indicated she put up a terrific struggle with her assailant, the police said. She weighed only 100 pounds and it was quite possible for a strong man to have held both of her wrists together with one hand and to have placed the other hand over her mouth to prevent an outcry.
Mrs. Titterton, who wrote under her maiden name of Nancy Evans, met her death just as she was climbing to success in the literary world. She had shown unusual promise in her recent work in magazines and fiction. Her latest story appeared in the August issue of the magazine "Story," and was entitled "I Decline My Head." Her husband told police she had been engaged in writing a first novel.
The apartment house in which the murder took place is in the center of one of the city's smartest residential districts. Among those living in the immediate vicinity are Katharine Cornell, Grand Duchess Marie, William Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting company; Carmen Barnes, novelist; Frank Gilmore, president of Actors' Equity; and Gifford Cochrane, millionaire.

A graduate of Antioch college at Yellow Springs, O., Mrs. Titterton was the daughter of a well-to-do family with whom she made her home in Dayton, O., until 10 years ago, when she came to New York, seeking a literary career. She was married to Titterton, an Englishman and graduate of Cambridge university, in 1929.
Had Been Attacked
New York, April 11.—Mrs. Nancy Evans Titterton, the titan-haired writer of detective fiction who was strangled in her apartment, was criminally attacked before the slaying, her near-nude body into the bath tub, an autopsy disclosed today.
At the same time police found that the fountain pen picked up from the floor had not been dropped by the murderer, but belonged to the slain woman.

FOUR UNEXPLODED BOMBS MAY HOLD CLUE TO SENDERS

were limiting their investigation to the Wilkes-Barre area in the belief the bombs were the property of local origin, inspired by some maniacal miner of the district.
Postal authorities and police officials said they believed there was no further danger of any additional bombs being sent out. They expressed the belief also there was no connection between the local bombings and those at Easton in 1931, in which two postal employees were killed.
Warn State Officials
Fingerprint and handwriting experts, due to arrive here from New York by plane, were to head the investigation of the case.
Gov. George H. Earl and other members of his cabinet in Harrisburg were warned by state police to be on the alert against suspicious looking packages. In Pittsburgh, a similar warning was telephoned to Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, the governor's representative in arbitrating recent mine union warfare.
A dragnet was thrown around the city in an effort to uncover clues to the identity of the perpetrators of the bombings that spread terror through the Wyoming valley anthracite region. Police declined to divulge the identity of a suspect reported taken into custody.
Climax Fire
The bombings were climaxed by a fire that swept through the rectory of St. Mary's church in the central city section here, the church of Mr. J. J. Curran who has been active in attempting to end recent mine quarrels.
Michael Gallagher, a Hanover township school director, and cemetery caretaker, was killed by one of the bombs, all sent through the mails in the guise of Easter gift boxes of cigars. The "packages of death" were believed to have been erroneously addressed and apparently intended for another.
Clinton Lehman, Gallagher's son-in-law, who was standing nearby when the lethal package was opened, was in a serious condition in the hospital.
Also in a serious condition was Thomas J. Maloney, 45, for years a prominent figure in the mine union circles. Bolting the United Mine Workers of America, the regular union, Maloney founded the Insurgent United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania. Margiotti conducted a series of conferences which failed to heal the union breach.

Children Hurt
Maloney's two children, Margaret, 16 and Thomas, Jr., 5, were also reported in serious condition, and it was feared the girl might die.
Postal inspectors called in from all sections of the country were conducting an investigation, seeking to trace down the mailers of the deadly cigar box packages which fomented a reign of terror through the region.
Judge Benjamin R. Jones, who has presided in many mine cases, and former Sheriff Luther Kniffen, whose deputies participated in many skirmishes in recent years of mine strife, through a stroke of good fortune escaped the fate of the other victims. Bombs mailed to them failed to explode before they were detected.
Police were inclined to view the bombings as the work of a maniacal killer whose reasoning was distorted by mine strife or union warfare.
Maloney's left arm, badly mangled by the blast, was amputated and it was feared both he and Lehman face the loss of their lives.

Interest Other Bombs
Postal inspectors intercepted other bombs addressed to Harry Coulson, a mine superintendent for the Glen Alden Coal company, and James S. Gorman, of Hazelton. The latter bomb was believed intended for James A. Gorman, umpire of the Anthracite Conciliation board now vacationing in Florida. Gorman's decision was final in hundreds of union disputes in which the conciliation board found itself evenly divided.
Police, working in groups, combed the entire business district in search for clues. All business places and apartments were examined and all packages sent through the mails were closely scrutinized.
District Attorney Leon Schwartz appealed to the public in this section to cooperate by giving any possible information that might solve the reign of bombings.
Rev. Paul Carey, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, was slightly burned fighting the rectory blaze.
Gallagher was literally blown to bits when he opened the deadly package with the expectation it was an Easter gift for Good Friday.
Police were working on the theory an incendiary bomb may have been tossed into St. Mary's rectory while most of the priests were busy with Good Friday duties in the church.
Watch Post Offices
New York, April 11.—A careful watch was being maintained in post offices throughout New York and New Jersey today for bombs of the type which caused one death and injured four persons in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. yesterday. Federal agents feel that infernal machines might also have been sent to prominent persons here.
All branch post offices in New York were ordered to send to the main office packages received from Wilkes-Barre. All suspicious bundles were to be turned over to the bomb squad for inspection.
Members of the joint committee of mine operators and anthracite miners in convention in the engineers' building, were warned against the bomb menace, which was linked to labor troubles in the Wyoming valley of Pennsylvania.
Special police guards also have been ordered posted around the building where the mine men are meeting.
The art of knitting was invented, it is supposed, in Scotland, about the beginning of the 16th century.

The Funeral Director who was first, and still is the only one who has advertised openly, standard funeral prices, of the funeral complete from $150.00, in wood casket, and the complete funeral, including Armo Iron metal couch casket, from $325.00; and asks you to come in, examine all my merchandise; also the bottoms of caskets (that is one very important part). Burke caskets are finished perfectly in every detail. Then after you have examined my merchandise and equipment, go to any other funeral establishment and do the same. You can see the difference. Even if some of the directors think the public cannot tell quality and value in funeral merchandise, I know they can. If I wasn't giving quality and service for the price, would other Funeral Directors word their ads as they do? And when it comes to caring for the loved one in a family, one funeral ad, stated people are not interested in price. He is wrong; they are interested in price and quality and will and should call a Funeral Director such as Darrell Burke, where they can secure quality and service, with fine equipment, at a reasonable price. And the family will not be in debt or deprived of the necessities of life because they have a large funeral bill to pay. Ask those whom I have served. I returned home this morning after a 400-mile drive to a casket factory, where I inspected the unfinished caskets I have on order. And you will not find cheap bottoms, or worn or knot-holed wood in my cases. Who else is so particular about caskets?
Another amusing thing in one ad. of the week was the part where the Funeral Director states that the other directors have their homes to keep up, their families to provide for and living to make, etc. And they do not want to injure them in any way. (I won't mention my family. That is my obligation.) But will say there seems to be a new affection between my brother Funeral Directors. I just can't get it. When I started in the undertaking business in New Castle I could not even hire or rent a hearse from the loving brothers. Ask them, all of them that owned a hearse at that time, if they did not refuse to rent to me. They most certainly did refuse. And I had to get a hearse from Pittsburgh and pay a high price for it, and all the local hearses would be sitting in the garage. I don't care who enters this business here. I never refused to help and never will. I'll help anyone who starts. So I think this will clear up all this childish battling. And I will promise the public this: there is not anyone, or group of undertakers, that can or will beat Burke Price, Quality and Superior Service.
Funerals complete, $150, $200, $250, $300, $325 and up. I pay no agents or solicitors for securing patronage. You get full value for your money.

Better funerals at far lower prices.

INSPIRATION OF EASTER

WIDESPREAD religious observance of Easter prevents in great degree the perversion of its significance so common in the celebration of some other red-letter days in the calendar which, originated in patriotic or other sentimental impulses, have become largely dedicated to harmless, but irrelevant outdoor activities. The churches exert an influence which manages to hold the Easter celebration largely to its true note—rejoicing in rebirth.

Spring infallibly repeats its miracle. The world is always the better for its recurrence. There are people who view mundane events through blue glasses and feel that a doomed civilization, torn by international dissensions, is nearing its end. They hold that human ingenuity is steadily perverting its powers to the accomplishment of coming destruction. These, and the less pessimistic, need the stimulus that Easter brings to all who search history and their own hearts for invigorating truth. The world cannot go mad so long as it holds to the counsels of religion and of its divinely implanted instincts. Decadence is followed by fertilization and fructification. Nature teaches its lesson; Easter urges humans to reflect upon it. The inspiration of this season is indispensable to progress, growth, improvement. It is well that the rejoicing with which we celebrate rebirth has its undertones of solemnity appropriate to the significance of the occasion.

SOMETHING WRONG

"A middle-aged individual has less chance to reach the age of eighty than his grandparents had." Discouraging statement, isn't it? Yet it comes from no less an authority than Dr. Alexis Carrel, Nobel prize winner in medicine and famed researcher. And he continued: "It appears that our resistance to fatigue, to sorrows, to worries, has decreased. Modern men do not endure the worries of business, the responsibilities and the sufferings of life as did the men of past generations. They easily break down. Some unknown factors in our material and mental surroundings are doubtless responsible for the fragility of our nervous tissues; and intelligence and morality do not appear to have markedly increased, in spite of the immense amount of money spent on education."

Dr. Carrel, by the way, was speaking at the Charter Day exercises of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Well, is he right? And if he is right, what is wrong?

Are we going too fast, wearing ourselves out pursuing the almighty dollar, chasing will-o'-the-wisps, and placing too little emphasis on the restful and spiritual sides of life?

THE RESETTLEMENT PROJECTS

Senator Rush D. Holt, the West Virginia legislator, has started an investigation of the subsistence homestead projects, following complaints made by homesteaders of the Red House settlement in his state. The senator says that when the project was started the Resettlement Administration had a "verbal promise" that a factory would be located there, but it never was constructed.

The Red House project is one of six, involving a total expenditure of nine millions of dollars. None of them was ever completed. The plan was to purchase tracts of land, erect homes and move unemployed families into them, but evidently the program did not work out as well as anticipated. The small industries which it was expected would be attracted to the colonies failed to materialize, leaving the settlers without any means of support. At the present time it is reported attempts are being made to pass the settlements on to private corporations. On the surface, this would appear to be a move to get rid of a bad undertaking, but Resettlement Administration officials say it is in line with the announced policy of the administration.

When the program was launched it had some elements of being a sound one. But plans of men often go awry. Successful settlements have been created at times, but in general, instead of industries following the people, it is the other way around. The most certain method of building a settlement is to get the industries first, the other factors will take care of themselves.

THE PRICE OF SUGAR

One of the good old-fashioned arguments of the old-fashioned free trader was that we ought to keep the tariff low for the benefit of the American consumer. They even asserted that when the tariff on a particular commodity was reduced 10 per cent, the cost of that article went down in a similar degree to the man who had to buy it. Time again the advocates of free sugar told us that we ought to take off the duty to remove a burden from the market basket of the American housewife. Nearly everyone of us is old enough to remember that choice bit of political baloney.

As a case in point, when the reciprocal treaty with Cuba was put into effect, the duty on sugar was reduced from 2 cents to nine-tenths of 1 cent per pound. That treaty has been in effect some time now. The principal result has been that under the new mutual reduction of tariffs we have purchased about five times as much more of Cuban sugar as Cuba has purchased of American-made commodities.

Aside from this, just check up on your grocery bills and find out how much money the housewife in your family is saving on sugar since this tariff reduction went into effect.

According to the Boston Transcript, the refiners have announced a rise of 15 points in the price of sugar. This is the peak price for six years.

Someone may have received some benefit from this reciprocal treaty, but very evidently it was neither the American producer nor the American housewife.

But remorse usually ends when it becomes evident that nobody saw you do it.

Built about 200 years ago, the Colonial home of Lord Fairfax, a mile south of Alexandria, Va., is to become an exclusive country club, with many prominent Virginians and Washingtonians on the membership roster.

Situated at Mount Eagle, on the Richmond pike, the old mansion—the last to be visited by General Washington before his death—is now undergoing extensive repairs and renovation.

A writer who thinks evidently that he knows says, "When the old town of Alexandria was under British rule and infested with spies, Washington and Thomas Jefferson found the home of the eighth Lord Fairfax a favorite rendezvous, and there, according to historic documents, these two patriots started work on the Declaration of Independence."

Now a real student of American History will have much trouble in imagining George Washington and Thomas Jefferson hobnobbing on any subject. Thomas Jefferson, no doubt, discussed the "Declaration of Independence" very intimately with Thomas Paine, but if with George Washington, at all, very guardedly.

Japan Trade Is Growing.
Buy United States Goods.
Disapprove Of Armaments.

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

With one country at least American trade has been growing without much ado. While, with other countries, trade has not been growing, even with much ado.

The one country is Japan. Will trade bring understanding? It often does.

WILL STANDARDS RISE? Labor and manufacturers do not look with joy upon a flood of Japanese goods made at "coolie" wages. But export of American products, at good prices, is welcomed.

Of course, Japan could not buy if it did not sell. Hope is expressed that American ideas on living standards will infiltrate Japan—thus rectifying the "coolie" condition.

JAPAN'S GROWTH
The interesting comment below is gained from The Living Age, magazine of world opinion:

"The year 1935 saw Japan break many records. The population of all the possessions of the Island Empire surpassed 100 million, and industrial production doubled as compared with 1928. The industries working for armaments and exports showed the greatest gains, and total exports increased 17 per cent, while imports advanced only 10 per cent. The total volume of trade exceeded five billion yen for the first time in Japanese history, and the unfavorable trade balance of only 30 million yen was more than over-balanced by the so-called 'invisible imports' from foreign investments."

Three factors made these records possible—first and foremost the superior efficiency of Japanese factories turning out low-cost goods; second, increased exports to the United States; third, the Italian-Ethiopian war, which opened several markets to the Japanese. Of particular interest to American citizens who are being urged by general Smuts and Sir Frederick Whyte to fight Japan in behalf of England, is the fact that Japanese-American trade is now three times as great as Chinese-American trade. The fly in the ointment lies in the Japanese budget. This will show a deficit of 757,500,000 yen, or two-thirds of the total government expenditures, excluding the military and naval appropriations, which, in turn, account for 46 per cent of all expenditures."

LAST SPEECH
To Asia Magazine we are indebted for the last words of the Japanese finance minister, Korekiyo Takahashi, who was assassinated by militarists, for his persistent opposition to militaristic policies.

We quote from Asia Magazine (in an article written prior to the assassination):

"As a realist Mr. Takahashi is much more afraid of further 'semi-peaceful' military adventures on the Asiatic continent. On this subject he has uttered frequent warnings to the country and he has made abundantly clear his resolve to deny financial support to any such project. The finance minister is well aware that Japan could not foot the bill of a campaign of this kind without, at the same time, financing her growing army and navy on borrowed money while at the same time she neglects her rural population and lower middle classes. And he must have grown decidedly pessimistic in recent months. For in the most courageous speech that he has delivered in his long career—before the cabinet council, on Nov. 26, 1935—he was reported to have said that 'Japan is secure from challenges to war from any quarter; that the organs of public opinion do not dare to say what they really think of the military, and the leaders of financial circles are in a similar plight'; and that if the military persist in their unreasonable course, they will become the object of public condemnation."

BANKERS OBJECT
Speaking of armaments, some of the largest British banks have registered disapproval of the Baldwin government's two-billion-dollar armament program.

The magazine Living Age produces the response of S. Japhet and Co., large international banking house in London, to the argument of Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, that armament expenditures stimulate employment.

Says the bank's financial review: "Heavy armament expenditure leads ipso facto to international nervousness and thereby is an additional stumbling block to genuine international trade and more so as this nervousness is exploited by the advocates of national self-sufficiency. This vicious circle is at the same time tending to perpetuate trade restrictions as well as subsidies to certain home industries."

"Defense expenditure we must still have in this imperfect world, but a reduction of this costly item and a release of capital, labor and raw materials for other more productive uses will only be achieved when, inter alia, the failure of rearmament as a means of furthering economic prosperity is realized."

WHAT FOR MONEY?
It soon will become a question as to what European nations and Japan will use for money to pay for their armament expenditures.

Possibly, as in Italy, it will lead to complete state capitalism. The United States itself has appropriations of $1,160,953,903 for land and sea forces this year. Then there are allotments from funds at the president's disposal, so that the total armaments figures for the United States are approximately a billion and a-half for this year.

That is second only to Great Britain—but the United States has far greater wealth from which to draw its expenditures.

The annual spring W. C. T. U. institute, sponsored by the East Brook, Energy, Harlansburg, Plaingrove and Slippery Rock unions, took place Thursday in Liberty grange hall with merely 100 members and guest participating in the fine program and tureen dinner at noon.

Mrs. Merle Stetson presided at the opening session. The opening song was "Stepping in the Light," Mrs. Lindsey Stewart at the piano. Mrs. Scott Guy, of the Energy union conducted the devotionals. All joined in singing, "Under the Wings."

Mrs. W. O. Taylor, a missionary nurse, gave a most enlightening as well as interesting talk on "Medical Temperance." Mrs. Scott Kirk, of the East Brook union, presented new ideas concerning the radio. County officers and dividers were introduced, each responding with a word of greeting. Noonday prayer was offered by Mrs. C. R. Bartley, of New Castle.

Mrs. Audrey McClymonds, of Slippery Rock union, was in charge of the afternoon session. The first song was "Go You Forth and Seed Be Sowing." Mrs. Helen Cameron beautifully portrayed the Easter message for the devotionals and prayer was led by Mrs. Bertha Eakin. A song, "O Master Let Us Walk With Thee," followed.

The county president, Mrs. W. G. Wilkins, gave an educational talk on the five-year, five-point plan of the state. The five points to the stressed, she explained, are spiritual education, alcohol, citizenship, character and peace education.

Mrs. Helen Kildoo presented in a very clever original way the honor roll for the women of the Slippery Rock union who have paid dues promptly. Mrs. Lindsey Stewart pleasingly presented a solo, "Whispering Hope."

The guest speaker of the afternoon was Rev. J. C. Fulton who spoke on "Alcohol, a Food, a Drug, a Poison."

Harlansburg L. T. L., taught by Mrs. Luella Morehead, gave a demonstration "Men and Women of Tomorrow." James McKissick, Marie Book, Cleora Brown, Mona Brown, Betty Dean, played two compositions by Mrs. Eakin, on their mandolins. A clarinet trio, composed of Ralph Plack, Marion Holmes and Glenn Harlan, played "Stars of the Summer Night." A group of girls sang "Evening Bells."

Sharp Fullerton gave a short talk. A piano duet was offered by Helen and Mary Sankey. Mrs. Bertha McCracken pleased the audience with a paper on international peace.

APRIL 9 was a "square" day, each figure involved having a square root. The date is 44 multiplied by three. April is the fourth month, two multiplied by two. And April 9 is the 100th day of the year, ten multiplied by ten. That is not important, but it will not happen again for 180 years, on April 9, 2013, when we shall all be dead, except some galapagos turtles.

Mr. Robertson, of the University of Alberta, gives the information.

DR. J. MCLENDON, physiologist of the University of Minnesota, proves the value of science with his air gun containing a chemical concentrate in it, four times stronger than ordinary anti-insect spray.

When a fly buzzes, the professor aims the air gun, shoots, the fly dies and the professor need not move from his seat. Try it.

THE OHIO RIVER again overflowed into the business districts of three states, inundating thousands of acres of farmland.

Nature seems determined to impress on man his own littleness, and make the moderns ask, with Job: "What is man, that thou visitest him?"

NEW YORK detectives, looking for "big shots," arrested 64 for vagrancy, caught only "small fry." Only fish nets are made for catching whales, and in the net of justice all but the small fish usually break through.

was given, the king staying at home, letting the Archbishop of Canterbury distribute the "Maundy pence." The late King George and this King, Edward VIII, are the first in 200 years to hand out the pence.

The king gave "Maundy pennies" to 71 old men and 71 old women because 71 was the age of his late father, King George. Each man got 45 shillings, each woman 35 shillings, and a new red purse containing two pounds, ten shillings and a white purse containing 71 Maundy pence. The English like old customs.

WOMEN DO some things better at middle age than when younger. Nature arranges that, because she wants women's youthful years devoted to production of better men and women.

Mrs. Lester Warner Jacobs of New Orleans, whose husband works for the Pontchartrain Bridge company, has six children, thinks she is "getting along in years," wanted to make money for her children and help her husband.

A woman's magazine, cooperating with the publishers, Dodd, Mead and company, had offered ten thousand dollars for the "best novel."

MRS. JACOBS wrote "The Old Ashburn Place," all about rural Maine, where she lived as a girl, signed it "Margaret Flint," sent it and won $10,000. She re-wrote it half a dozen times.

Women write their best poetry, which is pure emotion, as Sappho did, when young; their best prose, product of mature thought, they write when older. Middle-aged women are not "old."

Mothers and others interested may read the first instalment of Margaret Flint's "The Old Ashburn Place" in the Pictorial Review for May, just published.

THE ROCKEFELLER foundation gives Cornell university $42,500 to seek the secret of long life. Cornell might ask John D. Rockefeller, Sr., for the secret and he might reply: "Work hard, live temperately."

Long life is largely a matter of clear conscience, and wise temperance.

"One half of what we eat keeps us alive, the other half keeps the doctors alive."

CHARLES LAMB tells of a Chinese gentleman whose house burned, and of a pig, so manfully roasted, that the theater pigs were locked in houses, the houses burned for the sake of the roast pig.

That is recalled by a lady under arrest in Pensacola, Fla. Sheriff Gandy charges she tried twice to wreck a crowded passenger train to kill her husband, the engineer.

It is alleged that the plot failed because the wrong spikes were nailed from the rails on a curve. Sheriff Gandy thinks the lady wanted to collect $3,000 in life insurance and marry another gentleman, a carpenter.

Gerson To Open His New Store

Doors Of Jewelry Store At Mill And Washington Streets Open Monday

EXPANSION DUE TO GROWING BUSINESS

Jack Gerson—you know him as "Your Jeweler"—opens wide the doors of his handsome new jewelry store at the busy Washington and Mill street corner for the first time at the stroke of 8 on Monday morning, April 13.

Tonight at 11 the doors close for the last time at the Gerson store in the Penn theatre building, where on October 13, 1923 Mr. Gerson and a girl employee started the business which has grown to the store to seek more expansive quarters.

The answer to the demands of a thriving patronage is the new Gerson store—it's the latest word in jewelry establishments from every standpoint.

Robin egg blue is the color which predominates throughout the store, equipped, according to the most modern jewelry store layout, with the finest of "daylight" lighting systems and a cooling system which will keep it most comfortable in scorching weather.

The Gerson firm now includes Mr. Gerson and ten employees—and has for the past seven of the 13 years the store has been in business.

Built on the sound basis of "a square deal to every customer," the Gerson store has developed into a jewelry establishment which requires the enlarged space provided in the fine-looking store which will be occupied Monday. Mr. Gerson has built a friendship link with some 15,000 customers and attributes the store's new expansion directly to them.

Jewelry, optometry service, radio service and silver ware are the departments to be continued in the enlarged store at the Mill and Washington corner.

Contribute $135.50 In Addition To Donating Use Of Trucks In Emergency

One of the most liberal donations received by the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, for the disaster relief fund was that of the Lawrence county chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck association and truckers of Lawrence county, who gave $135.50.

The cash contribution was in addition to the splendid service rendered during the flood emergency, when 50 truckloads of supplies were hauled to Pittsburgh, Johnstown and other points free of charge. In addition they gave the use of the trucks in gathering up the supplies in the city. Their officers are John Velker, president; Herb Hutton, secretary; and Frank Wimer, treasurer. Other contributions received to date included $25 from the Woman's club of New Castle and a donation of $7 from the Spiritualist Church of Truth.

The quota of the Lawrence county chapter has been more than doubled, the fund now totaling over $14,000.

With a half day off in which to make preparations for Easter, it is expected that there will be a good turnout of county officials and clerks at services in the various churches tomorrow.

Another session of common pleas court will convene on next Monday morning with a new jury, the jury serving this week having been discharged. There will be one more session of civil court this morning, beginning on April 27. Cases on the trial list will be pretty well cleaned up when it closes.

Superintendent Perry Snyder of the County home is preparing to enlarge his garden activities during the coming summer. He reports that despite the extremely cold weather the strawberry and other berry vines appear to have wintered nicely. During the past few years the vines have produced more berries than could be used while they were in season, with the result that considerable quantities were canned.

With reference to the so-called "trivial cases" that often get into court, a very good point was brought out by an attorney during the argument of a case this week. He contended that courts do not exist for the trial of cases in which the "big fellows" alone are involved, but they must function with equal consideration for the "little fellows." In other words courts are maintained for the purpose of seeing that justice is meted out to all classes, whether they be rich or poor, or whether the amount involved be $1 or $100.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard says that most pedestrians do not seem to realize the danger they run when walking on a rural highway, especially if they are wearing dark clothing. They see the approaching car so clearly, and its light seems to be shining on them so brightly, that they do not understand that how obscure they may be to the driver. If a person is wearing light clothing the danger is not so great, as the driver can see him more easily. Another point for pedestrians to remember when they are walking on rural highways, even if they are on the right side of the road, facing the approaching car. If there happens to be another car behind them, going in the same direction as they are, the lights from this car often blind the driver of the car which is approaching them, and there is a period when the driver approaching cannot see a person on the road in front. The wise pedestrian will always step off the concrete when caught in a situation of this kind.

Pilgrims Blessed By Pope Today In Vatican Ceremony

More Than 4,000 Pilgrims Of All Nationalities Visit Vatican City

(International News Service) VATICAN CITY, April 11.—Pope Pius, despite his weakened health, received 4,000 pilgrims of many nationalities today in the hall of benedictions and bestowed Easter blessings on all. No Americans were present.

Because the pontiff has been less strong than usual lately, he will forego celebration of the solemn pontifical Easter mass at St. Peter's tomorrow for the first time since 1932.

It was thought the strain of Holy Thursday's pontifical mass and Good Friday's funeral mass, which the Pope celebrated, were virtually all he could stand considering his recent slight head cold.

If the original arrangements were carried out, the Pope, after the mass, would have imparted his Easter blessing to "urbis et orbis"—Rome and the world—from the arched balcony of the major basilica, facing the vast St. Peter's square.

One Vatican official told International News Service it was feared the three-hour Easter ceremony, during which the Pope would have had to sit in heavy ceremonial robes, and the one-eighth mile walk from the throne to the balcony, might have severely overtaxed his strength.

Pope Pius will reach his 80th year May 31.

Jack Young Gets Eight Dogs In Rounds Friday

Jack Young, dog-catcher, reported at police headquarters today that yesterday he had taken eight dogs into custody and that he received several requests to secure dogs from owners who no longer desire the canines. Young added that if anyone wants to get rid of dogs he can be located in person or by postcard at 258 West Falls street.

BRIDE, 84, ILL AFTER FLOODS INVADE HOME

(International News Service) MONONGAHELA, Pa., April 11.—An 84-year-old bride of two weeks—the city's oldest newlywed—was admitted to the Memorial hospital here, suffering from a severe case of pneumonia.

She is Mrs. Arthur Allen of 145 East Main street, who was married to Arthur Allen, 60, on the Monday following the St. Patrick's Day flood.

Mrs. Allen is thought to have caught cold from the dampness caused by the flood waters, which inundated their home at that time.

Justice Hughes Observes Birthday

Presides At Conference Which May Decide Fate Of Guffey Coal Act

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 11.—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, 74 years old today, observed his birthday by presiding at a judicial conference which may determine the fate of the Guffey coal law.

No hint of retirement came as the chief justice stuck to the work-a-day routine, which included work in his study, administrative work at the court and the judicial conference.

"The chief justice will be just as vigorous at 80 as he is today," observed a lawyer friend.

Chief Justice Hughes, like several other members of the court, is eligible for retirement, but under the law there is no assurance for a retiring justice that congress will not cut his pay.

Despite several efforts in the last two years, congress has refused to change the pay situation. The pay of the late Justice Holmes was cut by the economy act.

As chief justice for six years, Hughes has maintained the vigorous pace set by his predecessor, the late Chief Justice Taft. During Taft's regime the court became current with its work. Hughes has kept it so.

Still wearing the whiskers which made him conspicuous in his early days in politics, Hughes presides over the court with a mixture of dignity and good humor. He is the court's most prolific writer of opinions.

The Guffey law, which set up a "little NRA" for the soft coal industry, is the only big administration case now pending before the court.

The high court's opinion, which may be handed down Monday, is expected to further clarify congressional power and mark the limits of the government's authority over business.

Landon, Taft Talk Politics

GOV. ALFRED M. LANDON

CHARLES P. TAFT, II

Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, left, Republican presidential possibility, chats with Charles P. Taft, II, of Cincinnati, O., in the state capitol concerning the Ohio political situation. Taft, son of the former president, William Howard Taft, is a brother of Robert A. Taft, the Ohio "favorite son" candidate on the G. O. P. slate in the presidential primary. Senator William E. Borah, who is battling the "favorite son" plan of the conservatives, is making a campaign against the "favorite son" slate in Ohio. It is believed if the Ohio "favorite son" ticket of delegates should win in the Ohio primary on May 14, it would swing to Governor Landon in the national convention in Cleveland.

Haile Selassie Is Discouraged

Failure Of The League Of Nations To Aid Ethiopia Bitter Disappointment

WILL NOT ADMIT ARMY'S DEFEATED

(International News Service) ADDIS ABABA, April 11.—Disillusioned and bitter at what he regards an obvious desire of Europe to wash its hands of the Italo-Ethiopian war, Emperor Haile Selassie has undergone a great change in the past few weeks, persons in close touch with him said today.

Constant advances of Italian forces into his domain have deeply discouraged the lion of Judah, who has issued one war-cry after another to his subjects to beat off Premier Mussolini's invaders.

Refuses To Admit Defeat So far, however, Haile Selassie has refused to admit defeat. Only a few days ago he announced Ethiopia would keep fighting until, as he said, all Italian troops on Ethiopian soil were killed.

But the plight of Ethiopia, whose cause has been buried beneath the weight of Europe's Rhineland crisis, has brought bitter disappointment to the Negus. Believing he could no longer expect effective help from Europe, he decided some weeks ago that he must fight the Italians without assistance.

He then went to the northern front line, where the Italians were smashing through to the direct route to his capital, and there he shared the dangers and privations of his soldiers, according to his aides.

Fires Machine Gun They said he would rather meet death by an Italian shell than bow his head in defeat before the invader.

During the battle of Ashangi, it was revealed, the Negus fired a machine gun himself, and for two days went without sleep, directing his armies as they sought to beat back Mussolini's fascist legions.

His worst disappointment, it was said, was constant postponement of the League of Nations powers of oil sanctions against Italy and France's refusal to permit transport of arms to Ethiopia via the French-owned Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway.

In view of this, his advisors said he has become convinced Ethiopia is willing to sacrifice Ethiopia to the cause of European peace.

Fourteen Face Mayor In Court

Large Class Of Drunks Lined Up In City Police Court This Morning

MUNY WOOD-PILE MAY BE STARTED

Fourteen persons faced His Honor, Mayor Charles E. McGrath when he held police court at the city building this morning. Of those arrested 12 were charged with drunkenness and the other two were charged with disorderly conduct.

Mayor McGrath levied three fines. One man who became drunk and wandered into the Neshannock avenue district was fined $5.00. The two charged with disorderly conduct were each fined $5.00. The others who faced His Honor were discharged with admonitions to stay sober or they would be punished.

As a development of the large class and hearings His Honor said he proposed to study ways and means which may keep out-of-town panhandlers from coming here and plying their vocations, also plans which may cause persons arrested repeatedly for drunkenness to drink less intoxicants.

The mayor, if he adopts the plan, may also send some of the persons arrested often for drunkenness to work on a wood-pile. If the plan is put into effect it is probable that the wood will be given to needy next winter and also used at various city buildings.

Mayor McGrath, in discussing the situation, said he does not believe he should send prisoners convicted of trivial offenses, to the county jail and the cost be loaded on the taxpayers, hence his determination to seek some plan to inflict punishment, yet save the taxpayer's money.

In hearing cases today Mayor McGrath warned the prisoners that if any of them are found drunk on streets today or tomorrow they can expect no leniency from him when he holds police court.

Davis Walsh Picks St. Louis Cardinals In National League

Happens To Like Freckles On Back Of Necks Of St. Louis Gang

Thinks Jerome "Dizzy" Dean Will Have Another Good Year On Mound

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor
(Copyright, 1936, By International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 11.—Perhaps it wouldn't have happened if I had subjected myself to the customary period of prayer and meditation but, as it is, the writer is able today to name what King Levisky might call the "oblivious" choice to win the 1936 National League pennant, without thinking at all. It just came to me in the dead of night like acute indigestion and a telegram from Hildegarde.

It isn't the Chicago Cubs. They did all the winning that was coming to them last year, up to and including the third game of the world series. The winner and new champions are the roaring, ranting, boisterous boys known to the trade as the gas house gang from St. Louis.

Likes Cardinals
Incidentally, if you want solemnity and sound logic on a thing that can't happen for six months, I suggest turning to the almanac. To be frank, I'm going with the Cardinals because I happen to like the freckles on their necks.

Briefly, they figure to out-smart everybody. They failed last year. But last year the Cubs won twenty one straight and that won't happen again; certainly not with a ball nine that can't hit a loud fly. They don't hit the ball on the nose; they hit it on the soft palate. I might add that I think the Cards won't lose because they have too few discrepancies and too many Deans. Moreover, they have managed to lead Mr. "Pepper" Martin far away from the scene of his former violence; off into distant right field, in fact, where he still can throw the ball for very great distances—but not over the grandstand.

Picks Cubs Second
Anyhow, for better or worse, this is general idea:
1.—St. Louis.
2.—Chicago.
3.—Pittsburgh.
4.—New York.
5.—Cincinnati.
6.—Brooklyn.
7.—Philadelphia.
8.—Boston.
The Pirates, who have been changed very little are advanced a position between seasons only because the Giants have been on their way back ever since 1933 and now are in a position to demand that the Pirates stand aside and make for progress—in the wrong direction. The Giants collapsed in September two years ago. They collapsed in August last year. I can't think that a new second baseman, who hit .260-odd last year, can change all that.

Reds Have Hustle
The Reds might hustle somebody out of the first division but, right now, they don't look to have quite enough pitching and hitting. The Dodgers have both but seem to feel that the trouble with infielders is that they do too much infieling. Speaking of that, the trouble with the Phillies is that undoubtedly there are too many Phillies. And I should add that the trouble with that remark is that it leaves me nothing bright to say about the Boston Bees which, after all, may be just as well.

Phillies-Macks To Play Today
(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—Providing the weather man turns off three days of intermittent showers, big league baseball will make its 1936 debut here today with the first game of the annual city series between the Phillies and the Athletics.

Connie Mack planned to start Bill Dietrich for the American Leaguers while Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Phils was wavering between Chief Moore and Syl Johnson as his starting moundman.

Sixteen Team League Is Assured In New Castle Golf League This Summer

WILL GET UNDER WAY EARLY IN MAY

With a sixteen-team league assured as a result of the meeting last evening in the city council chamber, officers of the New Castle Golf League are making preparations for opening the season on May 7. Four new teams have been added to the league's personnel this year and President A. B. Jackson looks for the best season the league has enjoyed in its six years of existence. The teams which will comprise the league are: Shenango Pottery, Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company, Union Brewery, Haney Furniture company, B. and O. railroad, Johnson Bronze company, Hardware Merchants, Shenango T. N. Mill, New Castle News, Pennsylvania railroad, Reynolds, and McCann Rieck-McJunkin. Blair Strip Steel, Pennsylvania Engineering Works, Conn's, and Melvin's. On next Friday evening, the team captains will have a meeting at Sylvan Heights club house, when plans will be made for a party preceding the opening of the season, and when arrangements for the year will be completed. The teams will play at Sylvan Heights course every Thursday evening during the summer.

Top Row Will Race On Coast

(International News Service)
TANFORD, Cal., April 11.—With Top Row, defending his laurels as the No. 1 handicap horse of America, as the main attraction in the $10,000 Marchbank handicap, upwards of 20,000 race fans awaited today the unravelling of the puzzling question: Is Top Row as good as he used to be?

He was seven weeks ago when he won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, and should be today, so far as outward appearances are concerned. More than half the money in the wagering pool on the race figured to be on Top Row, it being the opinion he will be a 4 to 5 choice. Azucar appeared to be the next best horse, with Indian Broom the third choice, Thursday having an outside chance as fourth in the betting and the others, Arson and Jovius, being lightly regarded.

Mickey Cochrane Is Sick In Bed
(International News Service)
CINCINNATI, April 11.—Mickey Cochrane, manager of the ailing Detroit Tigers and himself on the sick list, was held to his bed again today by an attack of flu, and probably will be forced to rest until opening day in Cleveland, Tuesday. His condition was not serious but it prevented him from watching the Tigers whip the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 1, in Charleston, W. Va., besides Cochrane, ailing Tigers are Gehring, with a lame back, Pete Fox with a Charley horse, and Alvin Crowder with a sore arm.

The Tigers and Reds go to Dayton for a game today but Cochrane was expected to remain in bed here.

'Jimmy' Dykes Likes Tigers To Win Flag Again

White Sox Manager Says "Tigers With Al Simmons Will Be Hard To Beat"

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 11.—Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, today picked Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers to win the American League pennant. "And that goes with or without Al Simmons," Dykes murmured as he puffed gently at a huge black cigar. The New York Yankees are the club most likely to make the pre-season handicappers look foolish in September, Dykes opined.

The Red Sox aren't so hot because "Wes Ferrell and Lefty Grove are no spring chickens, you know." "The club to watch? The St. Louis Browns."

Washington will be improved. The Athletics are hopeless, Cleveland lacks balance.

His own club, the White Sox? "Well, I don't intend to get out on a limb. But I like the organization a lot better than I did the White Sox of a year ago," Dykes concluded.

The Verry-Cothran score was 2 up and the Bauer-Hemphill match 1 up.

McCarthy Thinks Yankees Are Due In Pennant Race

Fiery Pilot Of Yanks Says "My Pitchers Will Have To Be Able To Take It"

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 11.—"Well, Joe, old pal, I said, (Joe and I— for the moment—being closer than ham and eggs), 'what about these Yanks of yours?'"

"Huh?" responded Mr. McCarthy, abstractedly. "Oh, yes, you were mentioning the Yanks, weren't you? Well, I'll tell you about them. They'll win the pennant sure."

Now that was a truly amazing statement for Joe's the kind of a guy who will hardly admit it's a bright day even when the sun is shining.

"And I'll tell you why we'll win," continued Joe in a burst of enthusiasm. "We'll win because I won't let any of these birds save anything but their salaries this year. All that bunk about pitchers saving their arms and runners saving their legs is out like a light."

What About Johnson?
"Walter Johnson never saved his arm, did he? And he was better than a green pea for 20 years and I never noticed Ty Cobb saving his legs and they finally had to cut his uniform off to get him out of there."

You can see Mr. McCarthy was waxing indignant. "And don't ask me who my starting pitchers will be. I'm not going to have any. They'll all be starters, if I want 'em to be, and finishers too. This saving the arm business is out. If I feel like calling on one of them to finish a game the day after he's pitched a full game, he'll pitch and like it. You watch us this year, you'll see a new deal on the Yanks."

White Sox And Cubs Will Play Series Battle
(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 11.—Having been rained out of the southside home of the White Sox yesterday the city series will move to the north side quarters of the Cubs today with prospects of a baseball game being played decidedly doubtful.

In the event the weather man, who has promised "light showers", is wrong, Monty Stratton and Babe Phelps will divide the pitching for the Sox, Larry French will hurl for the Cubs.

If the inclement weather continues, Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Sox said today, he plans to borrow an indoor arena for workouts to ready his hired hands for the season's opener here Tuesday.

MEETING MONDAY
Managers and officials of the Business Men's golf league will have a meeting at the "Y" Monday night at 8 o'clock. The league will discuss plans for the coming season. The Universal Sanitary has designated a desire to quit the league. It is possible that a fast six-team league will be organized.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LAW PROFESSION PRAISED

Some parents who, on what they believe to be ethical grounds, are inclined to steer their children away from the profession of law, will be interested in the following letter from a highly respected lawyer of Flint, Mich.

"My dear Dr. Myers: At a recent luncheon of the Flint Exchange club you asked, 'Is the legal profession overcoming the influence of the shyster lawyer?'"

"Public speakers, newspapers and periodicals are continually referring to 'shyster' lawyers and holding the legal profession responsible for gangsters, racketeers and crimes in general, and putting all the law's delay on the profession. It is time the profession fought back."

"Of course some lawyers go wrong. When they do it is news, and it makes the front page. People go wrong in all professions and in all walks of life. One out of 12 Apostles went wrong, but I believe the legal profession now rates, and always has rated, the highest of all the professions, for honesty, integrity and fair dealing."

"I have been in the active profession for over 30 years. In that time I have come in contact with only two lawyers whose word to their brother attorneys was not good. One has been disbarred and the other probably will be in a short time."

Publishing House Destroyed.
"At the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire in April of 1906, a well known law book publishing house was completely destroyed, including their books of accounts. Their trial balance sheets were saved, and from these they knew that the lawyers of the United States owed them approximately $170,000, but they did not know which ones, and so a notice was sent to all the lawyers listed in Martindales Legal Directory, advising them of the loss and asking for information as to their indebtedness, and from the responses approximately $150,000 was put back on the books.

"Since then the requirements for admission to the bar have been raised, colleges require more preparation, and the course is longer. The American Bar association, the state, county and local bar associations, have a larger proportion of members now than then, and they are doing their own house cleaning."

"If there is a more ethical or honorable profession, or one which offers a young man more opportunities for doing good in the world, or personal advancement with his preparation and ability, do not know which one it is, and I am proud of the fact that my only son, who will graduate from Washington and Lee university, College of Law, next June, is about to join us. Yours very truly, Charles D. Beagle."

Respectfully submitted for the consideration of my readers.

AROUND CITY HALL

Public Safety Director J. M. Rice stated today that two meetings have been held during the current week in an effort to work out a schedule whereby paid firemen will receive one day off each week. Rice also declared that should such a schedule be formed it would not necessarily require additional firemen being named to the department. The police department members have been operating on the one day off each week since September.

Federal authorities were here Friday investigating the narcotic situation in this city. It has been some time since an arrest was made for the illicit sale of cocaine or morphine. Some time ago city police arrested in connection with the possession of marijuana, commonly known as "loose weed" which Captain of Detectives W. G. McMullen states first was used in Persia, found its way to Mexico thence to the United States.

No doubt Chief of Police John F. Haven will have traffic police at crossings near churches when crowds travel to Easter Sunday services. It was Haven who inaugurated the system of protecting school children enroute to school and church-goers enroute to churches. Recently at some schools, National Youth association members took over the duties of traffic police due to shortage of police officers, caused by illness and injury.

Having presided for more than three months as police judge, Mayor Charles E. McGrath does not believe in policemen acting as taxicab drivers for persons arrested for drunkenness. Many of the prisoners have been fined upon conviction. Persons who engaged in street brawls also have been fined, the average levy having been $10.00. Persons arrested for driving while drunk and turning in false fire alarms have been turned over to aldermen.

With the state police training school lessons given here nearing an end it is probable that an examination will be held for the purpose of showing the results of the instruction. Since the police courtroom was transferred from the first to the second floor of the city building there have been few persons present at hearings. No midnight court hearings are held.

Quarles Named As Head Of Highway Patrol In State

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 11.—Capt. Charles H. Quarles, assistant commander of the Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa., Friday was appointed superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Highway Patrol by Gov. George H. Earle, succeeding Capt. Wilson C. Price, who had retired.

Captain Quarles saw service on the battlefields of France as a member of the famous 28th division, known as the "Iron Division."

Price retired from the patrol, assigning ill health as the reason, while charges of lax discipline among the men were being investigated.

ATTENDS FUNERAL OF CRASH VICTIM

Mrs. Charles H. Moore, of Sumner avenue, is in McKeesport today, attending the funeral of Crawford T. Kelly, son of Dr. Charles Kelly, who was one of the victims of the airplane crash near Uniontown, Tuesday. The youth, who was a student at Valley Forge Military Academy, is a cousin of Mrs. Moore's.

Prices Well Mixed In Pre-Holiday Market, Changes Are Small

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 11.—The stock market maintained a steady tone today, reflecting holiday influences, and prices were well mixed but net changes for the most part were small.

The list opened higher under the lead of rails, motors and steels and gains soon were erased under mild selling and trading turned dull.

Reflecting a contra-seasonal rise in car loadings, carried shares were bid up at the start, with Atchison rising to a new peak and New York Central also developing strength. Most of these gains were given up later, however. Rail equipments were strong.

Motor issues were firmed up by a rise in car production to 113,000 units last week. Chrysler rose half a point and General Motors a small fraction.

With a uniform 9 1/2 cent price slated for copper next week, Red Metal shares were buoyant for a while. Johns-Manville was a strong spot in the building group. U. S. Steel was up a point at one time.

Amusements, alcohols, and oils tended lower. Utilities were mixed.

ELLWOOD CITY, April 11.—Second amateur fight of the year in Ellwood City promises to be another success in view of some of the matches made by Joe Lattiano. The show is to take place on Monday, April 27, at the Shelby auditorium.

One unfortunate thing has occurred in the matchmaking. A return match between Mike Kraynak of this city and Shelton Bell of Youngstown, O., could not be arranged.

Bell was knocked out in the last round of the first round at the last show. Kraynak aggravated an injury to his right hand at that time and was strictly ordered by a physician to lay off fighting for a period. Therefore his brother Paul will be matched with Bell.

Other bouts include Jim Dalchini of Springfield vs. John Henry Williams of Pittsburgh; John Lipak of Pittsburgh vs. Rich Gregory of Pittsburgh; Tony Adamo of New Castle vs. Fritz Waldeck; Sammy Crovatta of New Castle vs. George Davis of Youngstown, O., at 126 pounds. Battlers who are not matched as yet include John Giedl of Pittsburgh and Len "Dragon" Eady. The latter is a former local color star and is returning to the wars.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Speculate On Roosevelt Aim

Wonder Is Expressed Over Policies Roosevelt Will Adopt If Re-elected

MAY TURN RIGHT IN SECOND TERM

Central Press Washington Bureau 1900 S Street

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 11—Assuming, for the sake of argument, that President Roosevelt will be re-elected next November, one hears a deal of wondering as to what his second term's policies will be like.

His current one is what may be described as an emergency term. He entered on it with the admission that he probably would have to undertake a considerable number of experiments, and we've had them. Next, it would seem that, having learned by experience, his aim will be to put permanency into the New Deal.

Besides, if re-elected, he presumably will not count on being re-elected, and consequently will be freer to work for what he sincerely thinks best than during his initial White House tenancy. In other words, politicians take it for granted that, being human, he has been more or less influenced thus far by considerations of his personal 1936 chances, but that, once re-elected, he will feel at liberty to proceed as he sees fit.

GO TO RIGHT? Perhaps it is altogether a wrong guess, but there is an unmistakable idea among conservatives that he will turn their way, given four more years in the executive mansion.

I cannot ascertain that it is anything more than a "hunch." Nevertheless, I have talked with not a few legislators and others in pretty close touch with such centers as Wall Street, and there is general agreement among them that the financial district thinks more favorably of "F. D." than it did.

Maybe that is natural, business undoubtedly having improved, and business sentiment, in improving times, always being against "rocking the boat."

Not that I think business regards the present president as a safe pilot for a long cruise, but it seems willing to run risks with him for another four years, for the sake of profit in the meantime.

LABOR PRO-F. D. R. Labor, however, has not benefited appreciably by the bulge in business.

Employment has increased only a little and wages have advanced scarcely any.

Yet, curiously, the organized workers appear to be as pro-Rooseveltian as ever. The American Federation of Labor, while it does not take political sides, at least is not anti-Rooseveltian. John L. Lewis' line-up, led by the American Mine Workers, is militantly pro-Rooseveltian. And the Lewis organization will cast millions of votes.

Briefly, I think that business is influenced by currently increasing dividends, labor by the president's promises and his enchanting radio voice.

WINS BOTH SIDES? There is a hard-boiled conservative element which believes him to be essentially a constitution underminer.

There is a radical element which assesses him as only a pseudo liberal. After there are hereditary Democrats and Republicans who swear for or against him on the line of party designations, no matter what they may mean.

But generally the question is: "Has he sold himself?—like to liberals and conservatives? Unquestionably he "sold" himself to the liberals "from the jump."

Now apparently he is "selling" himself to the conservatives, without losing the liberals.

Which requires political good management.

(Copyright, 1936, by Central Press Assn.) NEW YORK, April 11—(The Dot: Now that the circus has come to town, "Jumbo" is feeling the competition. . . . Incidentally, Jimmy Durante is a firm believer in the adage, which Frank Buck says is purely legendary, that an elephant never forgets. . . . He has been contentedly polite to the huge beast starting in "Jumbo"—which is about to take the road. . . . There is no purely social cafe in New York, to compare with the Dome or the Select or the Rotonde of Paris' Montparnasse. . . . People go to restaurants here either to eat or to be seen—never to converse sociably.

The art of conversation has indeed almost retreated to limbo here in Babylon. . . . The dime stores, to further the trend, have taken to selling all sort of "big money" games, in which players buy and sell with huge wads of stage money—you know, General Hagood's kind. . . . The beautiful Marcelle Edwards, Mrs. Tommy Manville, grew sentimental the other night at the French Casino, remembering her appearance when the house was the Earl Carroll Theater, in one of the "Vanities." . . . She told me Carroll has not only never visited the Casino since it became the town's most lush and eye-filling cabaret, but he crosses the street in order to avoid passing it while out for a stroll.

"St. Joan," the Shaw opus in which Katharine Cornell is shining at the moment, must run until June to clear expenses, so costly was the staging. . . . Cliff Odets, the soapbox dramatist, is piling up a neat capitalistic fortune in the Hollywood he'd never succored to—until he got an offer. . . . All his tribe react precisely in that manner.

That Monkey Again The monkey problem, printed here years ago, continues to evoke letters. I herewith print it again, in response to requests. There's still a pile of answers (second edition) ready to go out to all who send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A piece of rope weighs four ounces per foot. It is passed over a pulley and on one end is suspended a weight and on the other end a monkey. The whole system is in equilibrium.

The weight of the monkey in pounds is equal to his mother's age in years. The age of the monkey's mother added to the age of the monkey is four years. (1) The monkey's mother is twice as old as the monkey was when (2) the monkey's mother was half as old as the monkey is now. (3) The monkey is three times as old as the monkey's mother was when (4) the monkey's mother was three times as old as the monkey.

The weight of the rope or the weight at the end is half as much again as the difference between the weight and the weight plus the weight of the monkey. How long is the rope?
